Air Force Plane Rams Into Korea Mountain; 44 Die

Victims Include 37 GI's Going Back To Front

Crew Killed; Craft
Falls East Of Seoul;
No One Escapes Death

SEOUL, (U)—An Air Force transport plane plowed into a Korean mountain yesterday killing 44 persons, including 37 soldiers and the plane's crew of seven. The soldiers were being returned to Korea after short rest leaves in Japan.

No one aboard the C119 Flying Boxcar escaped death, an Air Force spokesman said.

It was the first crash of a transport flying soldiers back from recreation leaves, the spokesman said, "and to my knowledge, it is the worst transport disaster in this theater since the war began."

A search party reported from the scene that the transport had burned, but it was not clear whether the plane caught fire before or after the crash.

It smashed into a "V" shaped junction of two mountain ridges about 2,200 feet high. The area, 20 miles east of Seoul, is so rough that helicopters can not land.

The search party is bringing the bodies out on foot. Hovering helicopters dropped stretchers and other supplies.

The plane was last heard from at 2:40 p.m., Friday, when its pilot reported to the Seoul control tower he was coming in for a routine landing.

Air Force spokesmen said there were scattered clouds at 1,200 feet—1,000 feet below the crest of the ridges—and it was possible the plane bored into the side of a mountain which the pilot did not know was in his path.

An investigating team of Air Force specialists from Tokyo flew to Korea and now is conducting an "exhaustive probe" of the disaster, the Air Force said.

Russians Lack Repair Parts For Vehicles

WASHINGTON (U)—Russians claim they invented automobiles, but apparently they're having trouble keeping them running.

Some example of automotive repair service, Russian-style:

1. The director of the Kishinev winery says he waited three years for his truck to be repaired. Then he found that it had been "cannibalized"—stripped of parts to repair other trucks.

2. A ZIS5 truck, of the Kishinev Truzhenik collective, was delivered to a repair plant July 7 last year and more than 12 months later was still waiting its turn although in the meantime 6,338 rubles—nominally about $1,744—had been paid in advance for repairs.

The situation is so bad, says the State Department, even Russians are becoming impatient.

The customers of the government-run automotive repair plant at Kishinev, capital of the Moldavian Soviet Republic, finally complained. The situation was set forth in detail in a copy of the newspaper Soviet Moldavia received by the State Department.

A year ago the Literary Gazette of Moscow was complaining about difficulties owners of private cars in Soviet Russia were finding in having the simplest repairs made.

Four Persons Are Injured In Road Mishaps

Four persons were injured during the past 24 hours in two area traffic mishaps investigated by State Highway Patrolmen of the Salem and Canfield Barracks.

Three boys are in good condition in the Central Clinic today following the mishap at 11:30 p.m. Friday in which their car went out of control, rolled over and stopped in a field on Route 45, two miles north of the intersection of Routes 45 and 165.

Glen Tohm, 17, of RD 2, Canfield, the driver, sustained contusions of the neck; his brother, Raymond, 16, received lacerations of the head, and Robert Kelly, 14, of Greenford, sustained contusions of the right cheek and forehead.

Salem State Highway Patrolmen reported that Daniel Vargo of East Palestine fell asleep at 3:45 a.m. today as he was driving on Route 46, just west of East Palestine, causing his car to overturn in the road.

He sustained body lacerations and bruises, a possible fracture of the left ankle and a possible broken right shoulder. He was brought to the Salem City Hospital where his condition is reported fair today.

Aides Clear Way For Ike's Talk

General To Confer
With Truman Tuesday

WASHINGTON (U)—President-elect Eisenhower's advance scouts sifting secrets and shunning publicity, quietly cleared the way today for his conference next Tuesday with President Truman.

The information gatherers, Massachusetts Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and Detroit banker Joseph Dodge, went about their tasks inside a self-imposed, no-news-to-day cocoon.

Neither Lodge, who is Eisenhower's liaison with almost all government agencies but the Budget Bureau, nor Dodge, who takes over there, had any report on their progress.

Lodge made it clear yesterday, his first on the job, that he was asking questions, not answering them. In shirt sleeves, making phone calls from his Senate office, Lodge told reporters only that he is gathering "top secret" information from the Truman administration.

He described his schedule today in this terse fashion:

"I have an appointment with a man who wants to see me in confidence."

Practically nothing has been heard from the other half of the Lodge-Dodge team since he arrived in Washington last Wednesday. Dodge announced he was going to watch—but not criticize or advise—while budget officials put the finishing touches to the last federal budget of the Truman administration, which goes to Congress in January.

Dodge and other Eisenhower aides have emphasized that the general will not accept responsibility.

Ike Plans Using Gov. Dewey As Troubleshooter

Governor Won't Take
Cabinet Post; Ponder
Fate Of Amateurs

AUGUSTA, Ga. (U)—President-elect Eisenhower turned today to the question of whether to keep alive during the next four years an organization of political amateurs who helped him win the election.

The future of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee came up for decision amid indications the general plans to call on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York to serve from time to time as a troubleshooter for the new Republican administration.

But Dewey, Eisenhower said, has "emphatically re-affirmed" that he is not available for a cabinet job in the new Republican administration. That is the situation at least for the present, the general added.

Walter Williams, Seattle businessman who served as chairman of the citizens committee during the campaign, arranged to confer with Eisenhower regarding whether the big organization of self-styled political amateurs should stay in business or close up shop temporarily.

And there was a possibility the talk might get around to a cabinet post or some other major job for Williams. He has been mentioned for secretary of the interior or secretary of commerce.

Williams reportedly wouldn't turn down any such offer—as Dewey quite possibly did yesterday.

Neither Eisenhower nor Dewey said anything about a cabinet offer. But the President-elect indicated Dewey could have such an assignment if he wanted it.

Eisenhower and Dewey conferred for four hours yesterday at the general's vacation headquarters. After the session, Eisenhower issued this statement:

"In the course of our conversation ... Gov. Dewey emphatically re-affirmed his purpose of continuing to serve the country."

Canton Teen-Agers Stage Rally-Riot

CANTON, O. (U)—One thousand brawling teen agers streamed through downtown Canton Friday night, throwing stones at cars, lighting fires and jeering at policemen.

The row developed from what started out to be the annual bonfire rally for today's Canton McKinley-Massillon High School football game.

Police, who arrested several youngsters, said today most of the boys and girls were from Canton McKinley. They said many of the high school pupils and young hoodlums:

Stoned a car bearing the sign "Massillon Beat McKinley."

Broke a police cruiser's windshield.

Set street corner fires by lighting waste containers from Second St. S. to Sixth St. N.

Threatened one policeman who was trying to capture a boy who escaped from a police cruiser.

Damaged car tops by jumping on them.

5 Hurt At Train Derails Near Loudonville

LOUDONVILLE, O. (U)—Five persons were injured early today when the Pennsylvania Railroad's Manhattan Limited derailed near here and was struck by a 97-car freight train.

Railroad officials said eight cars of the 12-car passenger train, bound for Chicago from New York, jumped the tracks and were pounded moments later by the freight. Seven freight cars were derailed.

The Mansfield General Hospital identified the injured as:

Mariano Cegalvo, 49, of Chicago, a porter, chest injuries.

Percy Dixon, Alliance, O., 63, conductor on one of the trains, back injuries.

Thomas Sclanos, 48, St. Louis, Mo., a passenger, neck and chest injuries.

Millicent Dock, 51, Two Harbors, Minn., a passenger, broken back and chest injuries, condition serious.

Stevenson Says He'll Help Dems To Be Useful Opposition

TUCSON, Ariz. (U)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson says he hopes the Democratic party can be a "positive and intelligent opposition," and that he will do all in his power to make it a useful instrument to the nation.

"To the extent that I can help ... I will be glad to do so," he said as he relaxed on an Arizona cattle ranch.

The defeated Democratic candidate for president, vacationing at the De La Osa (she bear) ranch 60 miles south of here, declined to be specific about his plans for the future, or the role he might play in the party.

"I still have a job to finish in Springfield," he said at his first press conference since the election. "That will take until almost the middle of January."

Eljer Strike Enters Third Week Tomorrow

No Settlement In View; Union Plans
Tuesday Meeting

The strike of CIO unionists at the Eljer Company (National Sanitary) plant will enter its third week tomorrow, with no settlement in sight.

The workers quit at midnight Nov. 1 on a "no contract, no work" basis, leaving 674 employees idle.

Principal argument in contract negotiations appears to be over wages. The company has offered 20 cents an hour increase to the employees in a new contract, but the union wants 32½ cents.

No progress has been made toward ending the strike, the union and the company having held only one meeting, a week ago Friday, since the strike went into effect.

Nothing developed from that meeting which was requested by W. W. Powell, representative of the Federal Mediation Service. The session lasted two hours.

Paul Birtalan, president of the Eljer Local No. 3816, United Steel Workers of America, said today that a regular union membership meeting would be held Tuesday.

Louis Probst, vice president and general manager of Eljer, said today he had nothing new to report.

The Eljer plant on the Depot Road is being picketed, although supervisory employees are permitted to enter the sanitary ware factory to perform watchman duties.

No new developments have occurred in the Schnell Tool & Die Corp. strike, Charles Schnell, company vice president said today.

Employees went on strike Nov. 7 following failure of the company and the union local (CIO) to agree on a new work contract. Fifty-five workers are idle.

Costello Said To Have Bossed Tammany Hall

NEW YORK (U)—Reputed underworld boss Frank Costello emerged today, in State Crime Commission testimony, as a man also once known as "the boss" around the Manhattan Democratic organization's Tammany Hall.

The statement was made yesterday by a former Tammany district leader as commission witnesses and previously undisclosed records spun a web of political-underworld intrigue stretching from smoke-filled rooms to courthouse chambers.

I. Daniel Neustein, the former Tammany leader, said he held the post from 1941 until 1945 when he was told: "The boss didn't want me any more." He said "the boss" reference presumably was to Costello.

Neustein also asserted it was "almost common knowledge" in those days that nominations for the (state) Supreme Court had to be paid for.

After the hearings by the New York State Crime Commission were adjourned for the weekend it was announced last night that U. S. Atty. Gen. James P. McGranery had asked for a transcript of testimony by Armand Chankalian, administrative assistant to the U.S. attorney here.

McGranery's action climaxed a day of rapid-fire developments highlighted, among other things, by Chankalian's testimony that he once interceded with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in an attempt to get a restoration of the voting privileges of Thomas (Three-Finger Brown) Luchese.

Pinpoint Hill Won 15th Time By S. Koreans

SEOUL (U)—Counterattacking South Koreans drove Chinese Communists toward the north end of blood-soaked Sniper Ridge today after winning battered Pinpoint Hill for the 15th time in a month.

Fighting for Pinpoint, dominant height on the ridge, had raged for 26 hours with rifle fire at hand-to-hand range.

An Eighth Army spokesman said the Republic of Korea infantrymen secured the peak at 6:25 a.m. and drove the last Red remnants to their maze of tunnels and caves on the Yoke, at the northern tip of Sniper.

From that stronghold, the Reds again and again have sprung attacks and spewed reinforcements forcing the ROKs off Pinpoint.

Close-quarter fighting raged also on Little Finger Ridge, east of Pinpoint.

Associated Press Correspondent John Randolph, reporting from the Central Front, said ROKs and Reds still were locked in battle there this morning after steady contact yesterday and last night.

On the extreme eastern anchor of the 155-mile bleak, rain-soaked battleline, Allied forces threw back a North Korean Communist company—150 to 175 men—in an hour and 40-minute battle.

Coal Price Hiked By Government

Up To $1.35 Per Ton
Increase Is Granted

WASHINGTON (U)—The government yesterday boosted the ceiling price of coal. A hearing Monday could determine whether the ceiling goes even higher, or whether coal miners strike.

The Office of Price Stabilization announced ceiling price hikes ranging as high as 75 cents per ton on bituminous (soft) coal and $1.35 per ton on Pennsylvania anthracite (hard) coal.

The increases may be passed on to the public.

The soft coal hikes are effective immediately on sales to retailers, and are retroactive to Oct. 1 on sales to others. Hard coal increases become effective Sunday.

The OPS explained the boost was granted to offset the $1.50 per day soft coal miners' wage increase approved by the Wage Stabilization Board, and the expectation a similar boost will be granted hard coal diggers.

OPS officials said if the United Mine Workers win the full $1.90-per-day hike they are demanding, an additional ceiling price increase may be granted industry to offset this new labor cost.

It was estimated any new increase, based on the $1.90 figure, would be around 15 cents per ton for hard coal and 39 to 42 cents for soft coal.

A hearing here Monday of government, organized labor and industry officials may determine whether the full increase is granted. If it is not, a coal strike is considered inevitable.

John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, negotiated the $1.90 soft coal increase with industry, but the wage board trimmed this to $1.50, contending that more than this would endanger national economy.

Both Lewis and the soft coal industry appealed the WSB ruling to Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam. The important Monday hearing called by Putnam is to go over this appeal.

The increases bring miners' daily pay to around $17.50 per day. The cost of coal at the mines, under the new ceiling announced yesterday, will range from $5.45 to $16.25 per ton for anthracite coal, and from $3 to $12 per ton soft coal.

Damage Reaches $12.5 Millions; U. S. Base Hit

Wood, Brick Prices
Double As Task Of Rebuilding Begins

TAIPEH (U)—Southern Formosa today counted 181 dead, 974 injured, and 12½ million dollars damage in the wake of a howling tropical typhoon which struck Thursday night and Friday morning.

No Americans were on the list of known dead.

United States military installations and the big Nationalist naval base at Tsingtao were hard hit.

Sixty dead were added to previous death tolls by reports of fishermen drowned when their boats sank off Taiwan.

The casualty reports were compiled from official and unofficial reports. Government spokesmen said they expected the toll to mount as scattered reports filtered in from outlying areas and towns in the typhoon's path.

Prices of wood, brick and other construction materials doubled as the South Formosans began the gigantic task of rebuilding.

Bereaved civilian families were given the equivalent of $20 in U. S. money for each member killed. Double that amount was given dependents of Nationalist Navy men killed at the Tsingtao Navy Base.

One of the hardest hit cities was the important port of Kaohsiung, where more than 500 buildings collapsed, including the Weather Bureau station. Most of its instruments were either blown away or smashed.

Communication and travel facilities were being repaired as fast as possible but numerous small Southern Formosa communities were without telephone or telegraph lines.

Government food officials said crops suffered but expressed hope the 1952 production goal of 1,600,000 metric tons of rice would still be reached.

Newspapers in Taipei appealed for donations for relief.

U. S., British Invent New Carrier Deck

WASHINGTON (U)—The United States and British Navies have invented a new kind of carrier flight deck—a "side porch" runway angled off to the left side of the ship.

It is designed to make landing safer and easier for jet aircraft. And with the far end of the runway jutting over the port side of the carrier, the likelihood of a plane crashing into others parked on the flight deck, or into the carrier island, is greatly reduced.

The two Navies jointly announced that the new deck arrangement is being installed for test purposes on the Essex class carrier Antietam, at the New York naval shipyards.

The British, who thought up the idea, call it the angled deck. The Americans, arguing that "angled" might imply slanted or tilted—whereas the deck is perfectly level—tentatively call it the canted deck.

"We are open to suggestions," said Rear Adm. T. S. Combs, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

One newsman suggested the V-deck, since the angled deck juts off from the regular flight deck to form a narrow deck. Other suggestions: side-porch deck, check deck, cockeyed cornice.

Combs said the conversion of the Antietam will cost around a million dollars but should result in even greater savings in terms of ship damage, reduced weight and savings of life.

He said carriers with the new-type deck will be unable to pass through the Panama Canal because the deck will add about 34 feet to their top width.

Combs said the safety factor arises from the fact that the line of flight is off to the left side of the ship.

Ex-Red Leader Says Ohio Begins 'Witch Hunt'

AKRON, O. (AP)—Frank Hashmall, former Communist party executive secretary in Columbus, declares his arrest is the "beginning of a witch hunt in Ohio."

Akron police jailed him, charging he identified himself falsely when registering an automobile. He is held on $5,000 bail.

Hashmall, 33, said he used a false name to get work that would be denied him if employers knew he was a Communist.

"Millions of trade unionists," he said, "know what it means to be blackballed and unable to get work in industry and tens of thousands of workers at one time or another had to use different names to get jobs and support their families."

"There was nothing illegal or criminal in what they did and what I did under similar circumstances," he said.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Faith And Prayer Go Together

A friend of mine is a grocery clerk. People say it gives them a lift just to go into his store. He is an amazing personality. Without ever saying a "preachy" word he seems to transmit happiness and courage to all.

Friends of mine have a colored woman to cook for them, and believe me, she knows the culinary art. But more than that she knows the art of living as well. She has had not a little trouble, but rises above it with a marvelous spirit of joy and contentment. Asked her secret she replied, "I pray deep prayers. I just do down deep into faith and come up with God's riches."

I was pastor of a church years ago which had a debt of fifty thousand dollars and I was supposed to raise that debt. I called a meeting of my board and we debated until midnight, coming to the uninspiring conclusion that we might possibly raise twenty thousand dollars. But the whole amount we felt was impossible to secure.

THE NEXT DAY I went to see a prominent member of my church, a Mr. Wood. Mr. Wood was a business man with little formal education, but he could tell me more about Christianity in five minutes than I had learned all my life up to then. He had made two fortunes, lost them through a partner's carelessness, and then had gone out and made a third. But I went to see him because he had more than money; he had ideas and lots of faith. And his was the creative kind of faith, the type that moves mountains—or debts.

"Mr. Wood," I said, "as you know, we had a meeting of the board last night and I thought I'd come out to see you today."

"I thought you would. How much do you plan to raise?"

"Twenty thousand dollars," I replied, "and I thought you might make the first gift."

He looked at me with disgust. "I won't give a nickel, but I'll tell you what I will do. I'll pray with you."

Lacking the faith in prayer I have acquired since, I wasn't enthusiastic. But I got down on my knees with him. He prayed a whimsical but powerfully effective prayer. "Lord," he said, "I wish you would do something for my young friend here. He's been to college and has two or three degrees, but what he doesn't know would fill a book. He doesn't know anything about human psychology or about faith. He has a church with plenty of money in it and yet he comes and tells me they can only raise twenty thousand dollars. I've told him I won't give him anything. But, Lord, if he will have faith enough to believe the whole amount can be raised, I'll give him five thousand toward that fifty thousand."

"Where do I get the other forty-five?" I asked, still on my knees. "Where you got that first five."

"Where did I get it?"

"We prayed for it, you and I. And now you have it. Always ask big, son. Always pray big prayers and believe while you pray."

I TOLD HIM I didn't know anyone else who had five thousand dollars and he sent me to see a certain man. I went into that man's office with the defeatist idea of asking for five hundred or perhaps a thousand. But, remembering Mr. Wood, I forced myself to ask for five thousand. No one could have been more stunned than I when he said, "All right, I'll give it to you."

In excitement I ran almost all the way to Mr. Wood's home. "He did it," I shouted, "he did it!" Mr. Wood was calm. "Of course he did. I asked the Lord for it and believed He would answer that prayer, for it was a reasonable request and for a good purpose. God will give you big things if you ask for them," he concluded.

You must have faith if you want prayer to do things for you. And if you aren't getting the answers you want to your prayers, it may be because your prayers are not great enough. Don't pray little prayers—pray big prayers. Ask for right things and ask right; that is, ask with faith.

You want health? Pray for it. You want financial security? Pray for it. You want happiness in your home? Pray for it. You want a life filled with abundant joy? Pray for it. Pray big prayers and you will get big answers.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY.

The booklets, printed in English, Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, French, Japanese, Korean, Siamese, Arabic and other languages—and also in Braille—will go to 45 countries.

CIO Board Ratifies

Convention Change

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The CIO Executive Board has ratified plans of vice presidents to delay the group's 14th constitutional convention two weeks and open it Monday, Dec. 1, in Atlantic City instead of next Monday at Los Angeles.

The 45-man executive board took no action on setting up machinery to elect a new president to succeed Philip Murray who died Sunday of a heart attack. Election of a new president will come before convention delegates.

YOU and the FUTURE
Is RELIGION Out of Date?

Disregarding loose theories to the contrary, men have been roaming this earth for about 6,000 years.

When we stop to think about it, the events of this mere iota of time, no matter how many history books they may fill, are of no importance whatever—except as they are related to the infinitely great and vast eternity! How could it be otherwise?

Yet business, politics, entertainment, and a million trifles loom before us, obscuring our vision of that all-important eternity.

It is like being "lost in the woods." Of course, it is important that we be familiar with the affairs of this life; but we must be sure that they do not prevent our attaining eternal life. Don't become so confused by the dense "woods" of modern times that you lose sight of that incomparably vital destination.

Lost in the Woods?

It is easy to see that the only truly important things—the only enduring things—are religious things; because spiritual things are our guides through the "woods" to eternity. Have you ever thought of it just that way?

Take one spiritual thing, for instance, that some people consider unimportant: the Sabbath. They think the Sabbath is completely out of joint with the times. It is just the opposite: the times are out of joint with spiritual things!

The Sabbath, as you know, is a day consecrated by God Himself for spiritual and physical rest. It is a regenerating force that benefits us now and for eternity. It renews our faith and trust in God and strengthens our allegiance to Him.

The richest blessings in all the Bible are offered to those who will observe this sign of God's creative power, yet some people feel this is unimportant if it means in convenient adjustment of routine matters.

When God placed man upon earth, as the climax of creation, He established a memorial for him to observe. That memorial of creation (Genesis 2:1-3) was an actual portion of time—a day.

We are told in the Commandments, by which we will be judged, that we are to observe this memorial because "in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and the Sabbath?"

Why made heaven and earth, the sea, and the Sabbath?

Because the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it." Exodus 20:11.

That sacred day of spiritual renewing exists now—as surely as God created the world. It will continue into the new and recreated world: "From one new moon to another, and from one sabbath to another, shall all flesh come to worship before me, saith the Lord." Isaiah 66:23.

Are you "lost in the woods"? One thing that will help you to find your way more surely is the utilizing of that sacred day established by God for rest, refreshing, and reconsideration of your course. Use it to plan for eternity and the new world to come. (Next: The Case of the Desecrated Flag.)

This is No. 7 of a series, telling briefly of the beliefs and hopes of 750,000 of our Seventh-day Adventist neighbors and friends.

The Life of a Chair

"How long will a chair last?" It's a tough question to answer, but if you buy one of the reputable brands from Arbaugh's, it will last a long time.

Just HOW long will depend to a great extent on what happens to that chair after you get it home. Is your living room occupied most of the day, or usually vacant until after dinner? Is your family all adults, or are there small children? In case repairs are needed, do you usually see to them right away, or let them go until they become more urgent? Answers to these questions will give you clues as to the life expectancy of your new furniture.

With reasonable care, most furniture will outlive its usefulness. Most furniture is discarded, not because it is worn out, but because it is no longer wanted. Tastes change. Habits differ. Styling and design progress. You'll probably WANT a change long before you NEED a change.

Back to the question "how long?" Here are some of today's brightest answers. Nylon upholsteries seem able to take unlimited wear, and are washable. Latex foam filling seems never to lose its bounce. Laminated plastic surfaces seem impossible to mar. Any good brand of furniture from a reputable store like Arbaugh's will serve you long and well.

"What do you read, my Lord?" Polonius asked the Prince.

"Words, words, words!" replied the unhappy Hamlet.

Aptly enough, Shakespeare expressed the sense of futility which engulfs men when they seek hope, comfort or escape between the covers of a book.

Books can teach. They can entertain. They can be reservoirs of knowledge, humor, pathos, romance. But they have little to offer when we must face "the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" . . . when life seems, as it did to Hamlet, "a sea of troubles."

But ONE BOOK is different from the others: The Bible contains not mere words, but eternal truths. Its insights into human problems are divinely accurate . . . its lessons in living are an inspired challenge . . . its promises are the unfailing promises of Jesus Christ.

That more millions the world over may possess and cherish this ONE BOOK is the goal of the American Bible Society, and of the churches and individuals who faithfully support it.

Above the confusion of words, words, words—they hold forth THE WORD OF LIFE.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Something New In Washington

Waste no time wondering what Dwight Eisenhower will say to Harry Truman Tuesday. Eisenhower is not the member of this conference who needs to wonder what he should say.

Events have spoken for him.

President Truman, wise in politics, must know what the events said.

A majority of voters distributed evenly throughout the 48 states and widely representative of both parties wanted no more Trumanism, even though its name might be changed to Stevensonism and the label prettified up.

They wanted a government which would lead them as a united people, instead of a government which would exploit their divisions and perpetuate itself by making whatever alliance offered the most votes.

They wanted a government whose policy-makers would be known and visible—a government which would not abuse the prestige of its power to bootleg into Washington people who couldn't win an election for dogcatcher.

They wanted a government whose officials could be assumed to have enough natural honesty to handle tax money without being guarded.

They wanted a government which could be relied on to work tirelessly in behalf of the way of life it was supposed to protect, instead of the way of life it was supposed to oppose.

And to get back to Harry Truman, they wanted a president strong enough to withstand the kind of pressure which could change a conscientious senator from Missouri into a blustering politico beginning to believe the words other people were putting into his mouth.

Next Tuesday, when the retiring president of the United States greets the incoming president he will offer his congratulations.

Dwight Eisenhower should receive them in behalf of the American people.

POW Fetish

The only visible block to a Korean truce is the prisoner-of-war issue.

Americans do not understand what the issue is. It has been presented to them as something they must accept without question because their side is right and the other side is wrong. Secretary of State Acheson says so.

But they do not know why their side is right and the other side is wrong. The POW fetish needs to be re-examined and restated.

It is one more of the many things Dwight Eisenhower can do in Korea. The U. S. delegation to the United Nations has assumed that Eisenhower shares its firm refusal to yield on the POW issue. Maybe it has assumed too much.

Among prisoners held by the U.N. forces in Korea are North Koreans and Chinese who do not want to return to their armies. Other prisoners say they do want to return.

For the sake of those who say they don't want to be sent back, truce negotiations have been allowed to stall because of the POW issue. Thousands of soldiers have been wounded and killed.

The only plausible reason offered is that the United Nations would lose the respect of other Asians if it went against the will of prisoners who fear the consequences of being returned to their own side in the war.

The only other reason imaginable is that the United Nations negotiators may be using the POW issue to get something they want—something which can't be stated.

Dwight Eisenhower will need to find out about this murky aspect of the Korean war, too.

One For The Legislature

Refusal of the Ohio Supreme Court to reverse an Appellate Court decision barring the use of farm trucks for personal transportation gives the Ohio legislature a chance to change the law.

In the case in question, the operator of a 92-acre farm in Lorain County was convicted on a charge of illegally operating his farm-licensed truck on a public highway because he was driving it to and from his job in an industrial plant.

The Appellate Court eventually upheld the conviction, after it had been reversed by Lorain County Common Pleas Court. The Supreme Court refused to reverse the Appellate Court.

Thousands of Ohio farmers use their farm-licensed trucks for personal transportation on occasions. It is absurd that they should be subject to arrest when they do it. The new General Assembly, when it meets in January should take immediate steps to clarify a farmer's right to use his truck as he chooses.

If the real issue in this absurd case is to open the issue of preferential license rates for farm trucks, because they are used off the highway as well as on it, the new General Assembly had better clear that up too while it's clearing up the matter of a ton-mile tax on trucks which are never used anywhere else.

Each year when squirrel season opens a flock of hunters go nuts.

With prices where they are, half the world doesn't know how the other half lives.

Korean Solution

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Knowland Has Do-Something Program

What can be done about Korea? The administration's answer is "nothing" unless the Communists agree to a truce.

Gen. Eisenhower promised the American people he would go to Korea to take a look—to get the feel of the situation on the ground. He will need first hand knowledge. For there are all kinds of reports current about a constant conflict between the Department of State and the military commanders on how the Korean War should be fought.

This is a new experience in American history for military leaders—to be told that they must let American boys get killed but must not take measures to weaken the enemy or to divert enemy troops from concentrating against our troops.

Nobody here who knows the history of the truce negotiations believes the Communists have any idea of making a settlement until it is obvious that they will be compelled by military pressure to do so.

Every time some plan to weaken the enemy is brought forth, the appeasers and their allies in Washington circles and in London promptly cry out that the object is to "enlarge the war."

Some of the administration spokesmen in Congress and during the campaign have warned that no steps must be taken because Russia might decide to bring on World War III. With such a psychology created, no military planning can be done and American troops are condemned to an interminable war in Korea.

This is one reason why Gen. Eisenhower was urged and did decide to emphasize the important role that South Koreans could play if their divisions were adequately trained and equipped.

The administration at first said nothing more could be done that hadn't been done toward increasing the effectiveness of the South Koreans. But now it develops that more divisions will be put into training. The whole idea is to train enough South Koreans to enable them to take over the front lines, keeping American troops in reserve and in the supply line.

Lt. Gen. Eichelberger, former commander of the Eighth Army in the Far East, says it can be done, and Gen. Van Fleet, our commander in Korea, revealed last month that approval had been withheld for the expansion of the South Korean divisions.

The latest plan of a comprehensive nature, however, for dealing with the Korean situation comes from Sen. Knowland whose specialty is Far Eastern problems. He recommends a seven-point program that goes to the heart of the matter—he feels that Russia must either cease to give assistance to the North Korean and Chinese Communists or the United Nations should take moral and economic sanctions against her.

Most Americans don't understand how the U. N. can harbor in its ranks a country that is openly committing treason by assisting the aggressors.

Mr. Knowland further suggests that, if Russia doesn't comply, not only should the American embassies but the embassies of all other free nations be withdrawn and that no Russian ambassadors be received at our capitals.

This comes under the head of moral pressure and might precede any other steps. But if Russia continues adamant, Mr. Knowland thinks the thing to do is to release the Chinese Nationalists from the restrictions imposed on them by the Truman administration, so that the Nationalists can go into China and liberate their fellow countrymen or at least start a movement in that direction by commando raids on the coast of China.

Coupled with this would be a naval blockade of the Chinese Communist ports and permission to Chinese Nationalist troops to go to Korea to help fulfill the U. N. obligation of repelling aggression in that country.

The result would be to compel the Chinese Communists to divert their troops to other parts of Asia and, particularly, to bring them back from Korea to the mainland of China. Such a diversionary movement would not mean sending any American or U. N. forces to the mainland of China but would rely on military pressure by the Chinese Nationalists themselves to ease the strain in Korea and persuade the Communists to make a truce.

The argument that will be made against all this by the advocates of appeasement and interminable war is that there are risks in it. Mr. Truman took a risk when he sent American troops into Korea in June, 1950.

He took another risk when he permitted our forces to move into North Korea. He took a risk when he ordered the American Navy to patrol the waters around Formosa and not permit any Communist troops to land on that island. There are always calculated risks in these problems of a "cold" or a "hot" war. But, when the casualties are rising for American homes, it is time to think of the long period in which such casualties may go on if nothing is done to break the stalemate.

Sen. Knowland has put his finger in the weakness of the Allied side. The free nations are not united and, as a test of sincerity, he asks now that all governments on our side which at present recognize Red China withdraw such recognition at once. It would be a significant beginning of a do-something policy on the Korean problem.

Holiday Bait

By TRUMAN TWILL

The Christmas catalog has come into its own, like the seed catalog. But there is no joy in the heart of the head man when it appears on the table at the end of the davenport. November is not like March.

The shrewd, ruthless devils who put their well-manicured fingers on goofy items to be pushed in the holiday trade are out of cahoots with a meat-and-potatoes approach to the Christmas problem.

It can only be conjectured where these jokers round up the weird stuff which is irresistible bait for the fishy eye of the female shopper. Some of it, of course, comes from the export department of the nation's booty hatches.

The rest of it must be manufactured under water by exotic creatures with eyes in their ears and covered all other with a light coating of radioactive fuzz. Surely no human being would devote his talents to the fantastic gadgetry which women buy for men who "already have everything" and for other women who have nothing, just nothing at all, dearie.

Speaking here as a head man—meaning as a geek responsible for underwriting the holiday outlay—I am 150 per cent in favor of Christmas. I am in favor of starting the Christmas shopping early and keeping it booming until Christmas eve.

I am in favor of this ingenious plan which glorifies suspenders, socks, neckties, shirts, slippers and bathrobes by wrapping them in pretty paper for presentation. Otherwise, there'd be no fun in acquiring these necessities.

Christmas shopping, properly used, replenishes a family's supply of necessities, plus a few luxuries to add zest to the occasion. But Christmas shopping is beginning to come unglued when it gets into gimcracks and fold-rol, at the expense of solid merchandise.

Fortunately, there isn't enough of this to be a menace, but there's enough to make a rational citizen tear at where his hair was before he pulled it out and rubbed it off in consternation over economic lunacy.

Christmas catalogs have contributed their bit to scalp erosion in years past, and a cursory inspection suggests they haven't improved.

If you are looking for a statue of a Rumanian peasant with an electric clock buzzing in his belly, a set of motor-driven wipers for your spectacles, a pair of things to keep the bedcovers from getting out of place, a combination toenail trimmer and concrete mixer, a book-page turner, a muffler to silence the explosion of breakfast poppies when the cold milk hits 'em—they're in the Christmas catalog.

Also an oatmeal stirrer which plays "Rock of Ages" on chimes, neckties which light up and spell out, "Baby," cold-weather mittens with secret compartments for dried figs, curiously wrought trinkets costing umpteen thousand dollars for king-size suckers and teakwood boxes filled with dried lizards from New Zealand.

Honestly now, wouldn't it be smarter to give fresh hamburger for Christmas this year? Or copies of the Constitution?

UNICEF Aids Millions Of Children

By DICKSON HARTWELL

NEW YORK—Hardly anyone in the United States is aware of the implications for the whole world of a meeting which took place in New York last month.

Representatives of 26 countries met and quietly voted to spend $4,260,000 for children through an organization known from the great capital cities to the smallest rural villages of underdeveloped countries as UNICEF.

Earlier, these same 26 nations—including Russia and the United States—had voted $9,366,000, making a total outlay of $13,626,000 for 1952.

What UNICEF—the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund—has undertaken has such potentially far-reaching effects that no man today can foresee its impact.

The job appears to be simple enough: Making sick children well, and keeping alive those who otherwise might die.

But UNICEF is saving not just a few thousand children, it is reaching out to literally tens of millions of them.

What no one can prejudice is what will happen to a world in which we have millions of people reaching maturity as healthy and vigorous citizens who otherwise might be sickly or dead.

Ten years ago it was inconceivable that a vast international program could be implemented for raising the health standards of children in underdeveloped countries.

Today, through UNICEF, the world health organization and other operating arms of the United Nations, this program is a matter of fact. The consequences—and the benefits—must be squarely faced.

What experts do agree on, however, is that the money which the children's fund spends is bringing a far greater return than was believed possible when it was created first six years ago by the General Assembly to answer the needs of children in war-devastated Europe.

First off, UNICEF's is not a give-away program. It makes no attempt to take the responsibility for child welfare away from the individual countries.

Instead, it grants money to governments for their use in approved programs, and for every dollar that UNICEF invests it requires the assisted government to spend the equivalent on the same program.

This matching means, then, that UNICEF's investment in children is doubled in action.

UNICEF, now working almost entirely in the underdeveloped areas of the world, is helping these countries set up their own urgently needed services for children. It is essentially a pump-priming operation, designed only to give the necessary help to governments which eventually must take care of their own child population themselves.

Latin-American countries have gladly welcomed aid from UNICEF, and since March 1949 it has allocated more than $7,000,000 to 22 countries and territories in that area in cooperative programs for child health with the individual governments.

As in all 72 countries of the world where UNICEF is helping save children and raise health standards, these programs will be of long-range benefit.

They are for the control of ravaging diseases that hardly exist in the United States; for setting up simple health centers and training the people who must staff them; for improving local food supplies and setting patterns of distribution that will help the children most in need.

It is not easy to think of towns of thousands of people living together not only without doctors but without trained medical help of any kind. Yet, in two-thirds of the world, the world of UNICEF—this is "normal." An ignorant midwife and timeworn superstitions are the only recourse in time of birth, sickness and death.

Under such conditions, diseases such as tuberculosis become virulent killer, but UNICEF tests children and vaccinates those who have so far escaped with a relatively little-known vaccine called "BCG." Indications are that nine out of 10 children vaccinated may escape the disease.

UNICEF so far has allocated $894,000 to this work in Latin-America, equipped a plant for manufacturing the vaccine in Mexico City and next month will assist in the opening of another in Guayaquil, Ecuador.

In the first year of this program 650,000 children were tested and 350,000 vaccinated. Throughout the world some 20,000,000 have been vaccinated.

UNICEF also is helping governments fight whooping cough and diphtheria.

Teams of health workers travel from the towns to remote villages, gather together the children, give them a "shot" and move on.

But the single greatest block to improvement of living conditions for children in underdeveloped countries is the lack of trained local health workers.

UNICEF puts great emphasis on training large numbers of auxiliary child-care workers—not highly skilled technicians and specialists, but midwives and home visitors who are willing to work in rural areas. One of the most successful of these training projects is in Northern Brazil.

Hand-picked young women are brought from villages totally lacking in health services to attend classes organized in cooperation with a big city hospital. Their training lasts three to six months and they then return to their villages to staff the maternal and child welfare centers UNICEF is helping set up.

Because malaria, in vast areas of the world, is the No. 1 killer,

UNICEF is aiding the war against the mosquito.

Entire cities and towns—even Jamaica and Colombia, are malarial and kept free of malaria by semi-annual DDT sprays. Typhus also can be practically eliminated by periodic DDT dustings.

Of major importance is UNICEF's effort to introduce milk into the diet of children, many of whom have rarely tasted it and who have no other adequate source of nourishment. Some areas in Latin-America have a milk surplus, others have none at all. UNICEF will equip a factory in which milk can be dried and then shipped easily to where it is most needed.

One country, at first doubtful that as many as 2,000 children could be provided milk, is enthusiastically feeding 30,000 a day and has taken over the entire program from UNICEF.

Multiply the activity that these illustrations suggest by a hundred-fold and you have an indication of what UNICEF is doing throughout the world: Helping the Indonesian government knock out the scourge of the tropics, yaws, a disease that affects 10,000,000 in that one country; assisting Egypt to get better milk distribution to children and mothers; setting up child clinics in the Philippines; training midwives in Pakistan; equipping a DDT plant in India; distributing fish-oil capsules and soap in Afghanistan.

UNICEF gets no money from United Nations assessment. It depends, instead, entirely on voluntary contributions, both governmental and private, with the United States government giving the major share.

On a per capita basis, however, other governments lead the United States in contributions, with Australia topping the list. Since UNICEF was set up, 99 countries have contributed to its support, either through their governments or through organized public appeals for funds.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The lady down the street was surprised to hear about Trygve Lie. . . she says, "I didn't know Harry endorsed him, too!"

We told her that Mr. Lie's resignation had nothing to do with the result of our American election and she said, "How come we heard so much about the 'big lie' during the campaign?"

We said, "you're not pronouncing it correctly. . . It's pronounced Lee."

She said, "if he's a southerner why doesn't he say so instead of palming himself off as a Scandinavian?"

Anyway, Lie more or less held the U. N. together with tape and baling wire and without him they might as well move Vishinsky's soapbox down to Union Square and turn the glass palace into the parking garage it seems destined to be.

If we've gotten anything out of our association with it besides bills, "police actions" and a long range commitment to tidy up the world it doesn't seem to show in results.

Housecleaning, like thrift, begins at home and our national kitchen is a mess.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Ike And Harry Confer

Harry.—General, welcome to the White House and, if there is anything I can do to help you, I'll be glad to do it.

Ike.—Where have I heard those words before!!

Harry.—Forget those campaign speeches, Ike. You know anything goes in politics.

Ike.—If I didn't know it before I entered the campaign I know it now. Admittedly, it was a shock to get the rough treatment you handed me after once telling me you would help me get anything, including the presidency.

Harry.—That was before I knew you were a Republican.

Ike.—Is there anything wrong with being a Republican?

Harry.—Not any more! There was a time when I thought you were a Democrat. Oh, well, judging from the election result I guess nobody's a Democrat any more. But can't we let bygones be bygones?

Ike.—They were pretty tough bygones as bygones go. It's hard to forgive you for some of those things you said about me—dishonest, untruthful, unfit, ignorant and all that. No man can talk that way about me and get away with it.

Harry.—I found that out!

Ike.—Well, let's get down to business.

Harry.—I just want to show you the ropes.

Ike.—Not, I trust, in the form of election cigars.

Harry.—Ask me anything you want to know about government.

Ike.—So you still claim you know something about it!

Harry.—That's such a dirty crack I wish I had thought of it myself. Now look, I figured you might like a briefing on the job. It's a pretty tough one.

Ike.—If I stood the recent campaign I can stand anything.

Harry.—You won't want to check the furniture will you?

Ike.—No, despite everything I said about the Democrats in my speeches I am not that suspicious.

Harry.—You'll find everything here as it was before the election, including General Vaughan.

Ike.—You needn't carry the inventory to extremes.

Harry.—There are a few things about the White House you should know. Will you want the name of my piano tuner?

Ike.—Don't tell me that thing was in tune!

Harry.—How about my sheet music? (Looking over the music.) You won't want "Across the Wide Missouri"?

Ike.—No, my favorite is "Ablene-ing You in all the Old Familiar Places."

Harry.—What about "September Song."

Ike.—No thanks. Just "November Boogie-woogie." What are you tearing up?

Harry.—(sneepishly).—"Oh, What a Beautiful Morning" and "Is It True What They Say About Dixie?" Here's a number I'd love to play for you.

Ike.—What is it?

Harry.—"If I Knew You Were Coming I'd Have Baked A Cake."

Ike.—Let's keep this in character!

Harry.—You'll want my writing desk, of course.

Ike.—Not necessarily. My policy toward music critics is live and let live.

Harry.—Isn't there something of mine you're interested in?

Ike.—I'd like to see your collection of scalp knives, tomahawks, poison arrows, flying saucers and smart brushes.

Harry.—I have nothing like that.

Ike.—Don't tell me that. I read those red platform speeches!

Tallulah Bankhead's second video show struck this department as routine and uninspired. . . Tallulah could shoot the writers.

Truman did so badly on his whistle stop that the Indians want their headgear back.

A dentist, Painless Parker, famed in the eighties in New York where he wore a high hat, did a "pitch" with dancing girls and pulled teeth on the sidewalks in a portable chair, died in California the other day.

A thoroughbred named "Aladdin's Lamp" won a race at $100.10 the other day. . . Even though we watched a trainer rub the skinner down we overlooked the lurch. . . Miami is exhibiting a super trailer with sun deck, swimming pool, solarium, bar and wine cellar. . . We hope the swimming pool rides well and that the bar gets through heavy traffic okay.

Aly Khan is reported agreeing to give $50,000 a year to his daughter Yashmina. . . With money like that any kid should be able to come up without enjoying childhood much.

We understand that Eisenhower has now reduced his pledges to one outstanding promise: Never to look up before hitting the ball.

East Goshen Church Has Daily Services

Special emphasis on the attendance of the entire family in church features the Evangelistic program this week at the East Goshen Friends Church, northeast of Beloit.

Speaker for the evangelistic services conducted nightly during last week and the coming week is Rev. Kenneth L. Marsh of Mt. Gilead, former pastor at Struthers. Midpoint in the services will be reached this Sunday. Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. and nightly Monday through Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Special vocal music is in charge of the East Goshen Male Quartet, with congregational singing directed by the pastor, Rev. Howard W. Moore, also a member of the quartet, which includes Allen Lockhart, Eugene Malmesbury, Fred Lockhart and accompanist, Mrs. Ralph Lockhart.

Two-fold purpose of the meetings are to deepen the spiritual life within the church and the presentation of the Christian message of salvation, hope and peace. The concluding service will be Sunday, Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m.

These meetings come in the midst of increased activity in the Church Sunday School. A recent Sunday School contest emphasizing personal visitation, conducted Oct. 12 through Nov. 2, resulted in an average attendance for the four Sundays of 169 as compared with an average of 132 for the previous months, July, August and September.

Leaders during this contest were captains, Mrs. John Reynolds and Robert Ruggles and co-captains, Mrs. Ora Wallace and Allen Lockhart. The contest was planned by Mrs. A. L. Biery, Mrs. Kenneth Byham, Ralph Lockhart and C. A. Malmesbury, Sunday School superintendent.

A large electric board in the front of the church is imprinted with the name of each family on the Sunday School record. A lighted blue bulb represents a family present, and gold bulb means the entire family is present.

Schropp, a member of the association, and she enjoyed the trip this summer. She showed souvenirs of her travels.

Miss Elinor Currier presided when a Christmas dinner party was planned for the next meeting, Dec. 11, in the I.O.O.F. hall. The members may invite their husbands or other guests to the coveredish affair at 6:30 p.m. A special program is planned for the evening.

Skippin' Around

By SKIP GREENISEN

It was shortly after the game last night and Coach Ben Barrett of Salem and Coach Bud Bucher of Lisbon were discussing the just completed contest which was filled with thrills and surprises.

The Salem coach said it was "just one of those games you like to win" and Bucher claimed it was a "tough one to lose."

The two mentors, the best of friends, talked over the highlights of the game and then departed from the officials' dressing room and back to their respective team dressing rooms. When the door closed behind them, Referee Jerry Seanson stated, "That's the way two coaches should act after a game rather than all these harsh arguments."

Bucher personally made an appearance in the Salem dressing room following the game

Dan Bucceroni Wins Decision Over Nardico

By JACK HANDED

NEW YORK (AP)—Dangerous Dan Bucceroni, a lanky butcher boy from Philadelphia, has moved up the heavyweight ladder with a business-like job on game Danny Nardico of Tampa, Fla.

After a 40-day layoff, Bucceroni will be ready to mingle with the likes of Rex Layne and Roland la Starza in the division now ruled by Rocky Marciano. He also would like to even an old score with Irish Bob Murphy, the only man to stop him in 42 pro fights.

Bucceroni won way off last night by himself—a unanimous decision on the cards of all three officials. Referee Ruby Goldstein, who penalized Bucceroni the eighth for a low blow, voted 8-2. So did Judge Art Aldala. Judge Charley Shortell saw it 6-3-1. The AP card also was 8-2.

In the early rounds it was all Bucceroni with his long arms slashing Nardico's rugged features. Left hooks thudded home time and again to Nardico's face. And then, when he covered against them, a right hand bruised his ribs.

But all the time, Nardico was crowding in, swarming to the attack, trying to get inside Bucceroni's flailing arms. Many of Nardico's blows rattled off the arms and elbows of Bucceroni. Many more were caught on his gloves. But some got home.

In the eighth Nardico hurt Bucceroni with a right to the jaw—his best punch of the fight. That was the round taken away from Bucceroni on a low blow but won by Nardico anyhow.

A smashing right over Nardico's left ear early in the 10th scored the only knockdown of the grueling fight. Nardico bounced up quickly but was dazed and hurt. Referee Goldstein took the automatic eight count and one more as he peered into Nardico's eyes. Then he let it continue as Nardico yelled, "I'm all right."

He was all right, too, as he staged a desperation rally against the tiring Bucceroni, who already knew he had the fight in his pocket. "He's a game kid," said Bucceroni. "I knew I had it won and I didn't want to hurt him any more."

Bucceroni took the bout on four days notice as a sub for Jake La Motta who "didn't feel good." He was a 2-1 favorite in the nationally televised bout witnessed by only 4,874 paying $15.93.

Bruised around both eyes and with a badly swollen left ear, Nardico had no excuses in his dressing room.

"I didn't think he had that much in him," said Nardico. "I trained for a short guy (La Motta) and a different style. Every time I looked up those long arms were coming at me. He's kind of cute inside too."

and congratulated Nelson Mellinger for his superb play and wonderful catch to provide the winning touchdown for the Quakers.

Mellinger was the happiest player in the dressing room after making the fine catch in the end zone. He was grinning from ear to ear the whole time.

It was the final game of the season for the two squads and the final contest for 20 senior gridgers in high school competition. Twelve Salem players will graduate in the spring and eight Lisbon gridgers will also depart from scholastic action.

The fray marked the end of ten seasons as Salem coach for Barrett and his record in Salem now stands at 60 victories, 26 losses and three deadlocks.

Bucher completed his seventh season as Blue Devils coach and his record to date reads 51 triumphs, ten defeats and also three deadlocks.

As Ray Reasbeck, public address announcer, put it last night when the game ended, "Fans sure got their money's worth of action." This corner thought the game was loaded with spills and thrills, and really did provide excitement for the grid fans. We hope the movies of the game come out good so Booster Club members can relive the game at Thursday's meeting. That meeting, by the way, is the annual election night and President Jim Jackson hopes for a good turnout.

With football now gone and passed, Coach John Cabas is wasting little time before the basketball campaign gets underway. Cabas is planning a workout for all cagers Monday afternoon in the gym following School as he begins his third season as basketball coach at Salem High School.

The coach will welcome all those who wish to try out for the hardwood game Monday night and then plans to gradually eliminate the cagers until he has a suitable number to play as members of the Salem varsity and reserve teams.

Cabas said he expected quite a number of boys to show up for the opening session and he plans to get a good look at all the prospects. With two successful seasons behind him, the Salem coach wants good for just that.

Georgia Tech Favored Today By 14 Points

ATLANTA (AP)—Georgia Tech, headed for its first perfect season since 1928, and Alabama, which would like nothing better than to smear Tech's record, clashed today in television's football game of the week.

The scrap offered just about everything the most critical football fan could ask. Tech already has been tapped for the Sugar Bowl and is the No. 2 team in the nation. Alabama, beaten only by Tennessee, is a strong contender for a bowl bid and ranks 12th.

The Engineers, who haven't been beaten since Bama routed them 54-19 two years ago, were a 14-point favorite in Atlanta.

Coach Bobby Dodd declared Tech could handle Alabama although its best runner, Leon Hardeman, was not expected to play. But he added:

"I'd feel better about it if I knew Hardeman would be in there. He's always good for at least one touchdown in every game."

Tech coaches figured the Engineers could nudge Michigan State out of top ranking if Tech beat Alabama convincingly and State lost to Notre Dame or was held to a close score.

Lisbon Beaten On 12-Yard Pass Play; Locals Blow 14-Point Lead

By SKIP GREENISEN

The Salem Quakers put the finishing touches on the 1952 football season Friday night against the Lisbon Blue Devils by eeking out a 26-21 victory in the last eleven seconds at Reilly Stadium in a thrill paced contest before 5,250 grid fans.

The Quakers tallied their fourth triumph to complete the season with a 6-4 record while the Blue Devils absorbed their second setback of the campaign against eight triumphs.

It was revenge night for Coach Ben Barrett and his gridgers as the Salem footballers avenged the 31-0 defeat which they received at Lisbon last year. Meanwhile, Lisbon lost its 12th game to the Quakers at Reilly Stadium in the past 18 years.

The turning point of the game and undoubtedly the most outstanding play of the 48-minute contest occurred in the last eleven seconds of the traditional fray. Twelve yards away from a touchdown and victory with just 18 seconds remaining in the game, Quarterback Joe Hrovatic and Halfback Nelson Mellinger combined with an aerial directly in front of the goal post in the end zone to bring the Quakers the triumph.

"Catching that pass was the thrill of my life," commented Mellinger. Salem co-captain, following the game. "Two Lisbon players were right there with me and nearly broke the play up but one of them deflected the ball into the air so I grabbed it," the stocky 175-pound halfback declared.

Mellinger, who had earlier caught a pass for Salem's initial extra point, was the target for just one of Hrovatic's passes and that pass proved to be deciding aerial of the game.

It all started when End John Baker intercepted a pass by Lisbon's throwing ace, Dean Nicholson. Playing defensive halfback, Baker went high into the air to collect the Lisbon aerial and came down on the Blue Devils' 49-yard line. At the time the score favored Lisbon, 21-20, with just 5:33 left in the game.

Quarterback Hrovatic called ground plays until Salem reached the Lisbon 29 and then took to the air, hitting Baker for ten yards to the 19 but the Quakers still lacked yardage for a first down. Hrovatic faded to throw again but two Lisbon linemen broke through and nearly brought the senior signal caller down. However, he managed to elude the tacklers and drive to the Lisbon 12-yard line, a seven-yard gain and a first down.

A pass to his chief receiver, Baker, failed so he then played it smart by sending Baker into the end zone to the right and crossing Mellinger into the center of the field. The latter stopped in front of the goal posts and two Lisbon defenders were right beside him.

On Blue Devil grider reached up and deflected the oval but Mellinger squeezed the ball as it floated downward and the Quakers moved ahead, 26-21. Jack Ference, who split the uprights after Salem's second touchdown, booted the ball a bit wide and the scoreboard read the same with just eleven seconds left on the clock.

Lisbon returned the kickoff back to their own 32-yard line and had the opportunity for one play. Nicholson faded to throw an aerial but Tackle Bill Megert and End Bob Sebo broke through Lisbon linemen and spilled the Lisbon quarterback as the game ended.

IT WAS a spectacular finish to a hard fought battle and the Quakers had to pull the game from the fire despite the fact that they held a 14-0 lead in the first quarter. "That safety for Lisbon just before the first quarter ended meant a lot to them and to me," Coach Barrett said after the fray. "We needed another touchdown to really break them and they needed points to remain in the game. It just happened that the safety gave them more spirit and from there on it was tough."

The Salem coach, who completed his first losing season in ten years with the Quakers, was referring to Lisbon's first points when Hrovatic was caught behind the goal. A clipping penalty on Salem put the ball on the one-yard stripe and the Salem quarterback tried to skirt end on a boot-leg play only to be downed by End Anzi Hough behind the final stripe, producing Lisbon's initial two markers.

The Blue Devils' safety, however, came in the latter few minutes of the first period after Salem had pushed a pair of TD's over in the early minutes of the quarter. Lisbon took the opening kickoff but End Dick Bosel fumbled on an end around on their first play from scrimmage and big 235-pound Bill Megert covered the oval on the Lisbon 23-yard line.

From there Salem needed but four plays to cross the goal. Mellinger tried the center for three yards, Hrovatic surprised the Lisbon defense with a quarterback sneak for 15 yards, Sebo managed two yards through right tackle to the three-yard stripe and then Hrovatic again sneaked the oval and bulled his way across the goal line.

THE QUAKERS received the second half kickoff but after seven plays punted to the Lisbon 46, where the Blue Devils started a 54-yard drive which ended with a TD and deadlocked the score at 14-14.

Nicholson and Rose combined for the last 31 yards of the drive in another odd play. Two receivers were downfield for the Blue Devils and in attempting to catch the aerial one of the potential pass catchers deflected the ball into the air. Rose, the other receiver, grabbed the oval, sidestepped a Salem tackler and raced into the end zone.

The Blue Devils had a chance to move ahead in the game by scoring the extra point but Fullback Sonny Utt was stopped when he tried the left side of his line for the extra tally, leaving the score at 14-14.

An illegal use of the hands penalized moved the ball back to Lisbon's 16 with the Blue Devils in possession later in the quarter and from there Coach Bud Bucher's charges inaugurated an 84-yard drive which put them ahead.

The drive, interrupted only by the end of the third quarter with the score still deadlocked, came to an end at the Salem goal line just four plays into the fourth period. Nicholson tossed a 24-yard aerial to Hough over Halfback Baker's head and Hough caught the ball in the end zone for the score. Lisbon 20, Salem 14.

Nicholson botched the extra point and the Blue Devils held a seven-point edge on the Barrettmen, 21-14.

Salem was forced to punt after taking the return kickoff but two plays later a Lisbon fumble set up the third Salem touchdown. Fullback Utt tried to buck the Quaker line and the ball slipped from his fingers and was covered by Salem Guard Wayne Ickes on the Lisbon 24-yard line.

George Mordew lost a yard in an attempt at the right side of his line so Hrovatic took to the air with a pass to Baker covering 20 yards and moving the ball to the five-yard line. Fullback Bill Crookston banged his way to the two-foot line and Mordew carried over right tackle for the TD. Hrovatic again attempted to pass from the fake kick formation but his throw was too high for the outstretched arms of Crookston.

So the Blue Devils remained atop the scoring column, 21-20, with just 5:33 seconds remaining in the contest.

Lisbon took the return kickoff and tried two ground plays but the Salem defense gave up just one yard so Nicholson faded to throw aerials. However, his initial heave, which was intended for Rose, fell short and Baker intercepted, making it possible for Salem's final chance at the Lisbon goal line. Minutes later Hrovatic and Mellinger combined for the winning aerial which enabled the Quakers' fourth victory.

The lanky 6 foot, 7 inch, 190-pound Nicholson managed to complete 11 of 20 passes while only one was intercepted. He gained 145

However, on the ground Salem had a yardage total of 184 while Lisbon could get but 77. Total yardage saw Salem far ahead, 236-190.

Fumbles in the contest were helpful to the Salem eleven since they tallied two touchdowns after receiving Lisbon fumbles. The Blue Devils turned one Salem fumble into a touchdown. The Quakers had three fumbles during the night while Lisbon misused five times.

First downs during the fray were in favor of Salem, 11-8. The game in general was a very clean game with Salem drawing 35 yards in penalties and Lisbon being fined 20 yards.

Expect Three Top Teams To Extend Winning Streaks

By JOE FALLS

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's three top-ranking football teams—Michigan State, Georgia Tech and Maryland—were strong favorites to extend their impressive winning streaks today, but each was faced with a foe quite capable of springing an upset.

Top-ranked Michigan State (7-0) figured to have the roughest afternoon when it met a charged-up Notre Dame squad (5-1-1) at East Lansing, Mich.

Driving for their 23rd straight victory, the Spartans ruled a 13-point choice to stop the Irish, who last week stunned Oklahoma with a 27-21 upset.

That shocker moved Notre Dame from 10th to sixth place among the nation's elite, and today the Irish not only sought to climb nearer the top, but went out to avenge last season's 35-0 drubbing to Michigan State.

A sellout crowd of 52,000 was expected to turn out for this collision of Midwest giants, and it was reported that speculators were getting as much as $70 for a pair of tickets.

However, the nation's TV fans could see—for free—the No. 2 team, Georgia Tech, in action against a rugged Alabama team in the Southland's top game at Atlanta.

The speedy Engineers (8-0), already picked to play in the Sugar Bowl, were meeting a formidable Alabama team (7-1) which also was looking for a bowl bid. The odds said Tech would win by at least 14 points.

At Oxford, Miss., third-ranked Maryland (7-0) returned to action after a week's layoff and was a 13 1/2-point favorite to hand Mississippi (6-0-2) its first loss of the season. This game figured to be a battle of offenses, with Maryland sporting an average of 28 points a game and Ole Miss 24 1/2.

While these three powers fought to retain or improve their national rating, other high-ranked teams hoped to drive nearer a spot in one

Ohio Hunting Season Inaugurated Today

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—The rattle of musketry was heard through the Buckeye country this morning as a half-million hunters began banging buckshot at birds and bunnies.

Disregarding the too-early worms who (as usual) tried to poach a little game around daybreak, the season opened at 9 a. m. The nimrods always are plentiful enough on opening day to turn the countryside air blue with smoke from their firearms. This year—with opening day falling on Saturday—the air was bluer.

And, as usual, all the indigo wasn't from the gun smoke. Some was from the blasphemous things said by hunters empty-handed after hours of fruitless tramping in the fields.

Wildlife officials told the hunters before they started out that the ring-necked pheasant and the cotton-tail population is down this year, that there won't be as much to shoot at.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Football League has taken over the franchise of the Dallas Texans and will foot the bill for the pro squad for their remaining five games.

Bert Bell, NFL commissioner, went through the formality of a hearing in the league office Friday and then took possession of the franchise, its player contract and reserve player list.

Members of the league will decide the future of the franchise at a later meeting, possibly at the annual convention in December.

the game opened. His placement was good. The second 6-pointer of the quarter came on a 24-yard run around right end by Clair Williams, Liverpool's classy quarterback. Oliver parted the uprights.

Wellsville tallied its only TD of the game when Left Halfback Dan Carney broke through left tackle on a quick opener in the second canto. For 60 yards to climax an 85-yard drive. End Bob Foster's placement was wide.

Also in the second frame, the Potters' Williams capped a 69-yard march by skirting right end for 9 yards to record a touchdown. Oliver smashed through right tackle for the extra point. In the same period, Oliver intercepted Wellsville Quarterback Bill Peters' pass and ran 35 yards for the score. He booted the placement.

RIGHT HALFBACK Mark Sanford chalked up the first of Liverpool's 2 TD's in the third quarter on a 5-yard left end jump. The drive covered 62 yards. Williams plunged for the extra point after Wellsville drew an offside penalty.

The other touchdown of the stanza resulted after the Potters' Williams recovered an onside kick on the Wellsville 44. Oliver topped off the drive with a 9-yard burst through left tackle for the marker. His placement was wide.

The roof fell in on the Bengals in the final quarter as the Potters collected 3 touchdowns.

Substitute Right Halfback Lorin Howard made the first one on a 30-yard left end scamper. Oliver's successful placement made the score, 49-6.

Linebacker Walt Davis' block of a fourth down Wellsville punt attempt by Foster gave Liverpool the ball on the opponents' 3. A William-to-Howard 33-yard aerial was good for the second TD. Williams cracked over right tackle for the point.

THE FINAL POTTER 6-pointer of the contest was racked up when Williams passed 18 yards to End Bob McCoy, highlighting a 62-yard march. Sanford converted.

The Potters, only county team to wind up the season undefeated, finished with an 8-0-1 mark, the lone blot being a 13-13 tie with Sandusky. Wellsville ended with a 4-6 record.

Backs Hal Bush, Spike Henry and Tony Conkle each accounted for 2 touchdowns in East Palestine's easy victory over visiting Poland.

Palestine had a big first half, pushing across 20 points in each of the quarters to build up a 40-12 lead at halftime and coast through its final crucial game of the Tri-County League season.

A 55-yard pass from Back Tom Meek to End Jim Kline, an 8-yard run by Bush and a 5-yard smash by Henry were responsible for the winners' first 3 touchdowns. Henry and Bush made two of the 3 extra points by line plunges.

CONKLE, WHO SPED 50 yards to set up the second TD of the tilt, added the first Palestine touchdown in the second canto by scooting the last 8 yards after Bush had returned a punt 45 yards.

Poland then put together 4 first downs which set the stage for Back Dan Smolanovich's 4-yard TD run. But Palestine's Bush galloped 80 yards to tally the next play after the kickoff to widen the margin.

Upon receiving the kickoff, Poland peeled off 3 straight first downs, with Back Tom Smolanovich crossing the goal line for the TD from 3 yards out. His brother, Dan, set up the score by running 21 yards.

Palestine's third touchdown of the second period was tallied on Henry's 4-yard run. A Meek-to-Kline pass good for 440 yards was the big ground-gainer. Bush plunged for the point.

In the third frame, runs of 40 and 9 yards by Conkle added Palestine's final TD.

Late in the fourth quarter, Tom Smolanovich hoisted it 33 yards for Poland's third and last 6-pointer. His brother made the placement.

EAST PALESTINE ended its overall season with an 8-2 record and the Tri-County season with a 5-3 mark. Its losses came at the hands of Lisbon and Newton Falls.

Leetonia, who shares the Tri-County title by virtue of its duplicate 5-1 record, finished last week in impressive style with an 8-1 mark, its best since 1945.

Columbiana also played its last game a week ago, having 4 wins and 5 losses and placing second in

Bucks, Illini May Stage Big Aerial Battle

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois, Big Ten football defending champion, only two weeks out of the 1952 conference cellar, rode a comeback wave in its battle today with unpredictable Ohio State.

The Illini dropped their first three league games but have won the last two, surprising 22-13 licking of Michigan and a 33-13 lacing of Iowa.

Ohio State had a 3-2 record going into the annual Dad's Day contest expected to be witnessed by about 58,000.

With neither team figuring in the championship race, the battle shaped up as a major attraction because both teams rank as top exponents of aerial offense.

The Illini, with Tommy O'Connell doing most of the throwing, rank second nationally in passing, rolling up 1,505 yards, 10 touchdowns, and 11 completions in 180 attempts.

The Buckeyes have relied mostly on Johnny Borton's overhead efforts in compiling a 1,460 yard passing total, including 11 touchdowns, on 105 completions in 182 attempts.

Bobo Sets New Scoring Record

ATHENS, O. (AP) — Hubert Bobo, the one-man scoring machine from Chauncey-Dover High School, established a state football scoring record Friday night with a 35-point output as C-D whipped Glouster, 41-6.

The performance gave Bobo, a 190-pound halfback, 323 points for 10 games. Bobo, a senior, rang up five touchdowns and five extra points.

Carl Smith of Washington Court House, another 190-pound senior, only last week set a new school record with 294 points. Bobo went into Friday night's game six points behind Smith, who ended his career a week ahead of the Athens County star.

NFL Turns Down Akron Offer To Stage Game

AKRON, O. (AP) — The National Football League has turned down an Akron offer to stage the Chicago Bears - Dallas Texans game here Nov. 30.

The game was scheduled to be played at Dallas until the Texans forfeited their franchise and the league took over the team.

Bill Griffiths, an Akron sports promoter, and the Akron Chamber of Commerce offered to hold the game here.

Drifting?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — This is going to be a lecture. So hold on to your ears.

It is a poor philosopher's summation of what he found in his native land after a brief trip to trouble Europe. How are they linked, these separated yet joined residents of Milan and Minneapolis, Rocky Mount and Rome?

This is a mystic period when Moscow, where Joe Stalin has his headquarters, and Mount Vernon, N. Y., where a lot of suburbanites have their children, try to go on regarding themselves as civic centers rather than the guinea pig communities of the future—the potential targets of the H-bomb.

I find at home and abroad a disturbing trend, a homesickness for the past. Too many people want to live in the world of yesterday. Instead of hopefully planning what lies ahead they want to sit and view what is bygone through the beautiful fog of time.

This is a helluva lot of fun, sitting and reviewing old mistakes, and antique problems. But one tends to dwell too much upon old victories, often more imagined than actual.

What the times cry for now are fresh and bold decisions upon the problems of today, not the fading triumphs and defeats of yesterday.

To be alive in this tremendous moment too often afflicts the young with a sense of duty, the middle-aged and elderly with a sense of worry. Both lift a tired shoulder.

Of course, what everybody wants is the wonderful world of yesterday. This is the safe area of reminiscence, the small corner of the past where anybody can remember he had it better than he does now, and make himself a hero of villian at will.

The deadly thing about it is that everyone feels the same way about it a little bit. The German in Berlin, the Frenchman on a farm near Verdun, the Belgian hotel keeper at Spa, the Italian wine grower in the Alban hills, the lonely Spanish shepherd, the weary clerk in an American business office—each day dreams of the days gone by. The escape hatch of the past's evergreen can find a way out of responsibility through it.

But today is the day of adventure—it must always be today or tomorrow. No can deny that each fresh dawn may unveil a poem above price, open a brave new world where man and atom may explore each other in peace, and the cost of bread falls so low there will be a loaf for every lip.

The sea of ignorance waves at and threatens our island of knowledge, so small and isolated a haven. Mankind yearns on an atoll, and drowsy continents yet to discover, and drowsy trying to reach.

But it is so much easier to feel sorry for yourself than it is to be an explorer in this life, whether you search by heart or seek by microscope.

The human race sighs at this peak moment of history for rest after a series of world wide and exhausting wars and business crises. Around the world men wonder: "Is life worth while? Where are we drifting?"

I suppose that since the morn of meaning this query, has plagued thoughtful men each day on awakening from the sanctuary of slumber.

Just before a certain night lifted back in 1492 and showed an island outpost of America, Christopher Columbus probably brooded: "What am I doing here? I'm probably making the biggest mistake of my life."

ing in his important post as governor of New York.

"This purpose, of course, precludes—at least for the present—any thought of requesting him to accept a post in the federal government. This decision on his part he feels to be in the best interests of the people of New York state and of the Republican party in the nation.

"Nevertheless, in spite of his preoccupation in his current work, he has promised to be available whenever necessary for consultation and advice and for any future work of an emergency character.

"In view of his great abilities and unusual experience as a public servant, and because he is one of the Republican party's outstanding leaders, Gov. Dewey's availability is more than gratifying to me."

Eisenhower aides said they feel sure the President-elect will call on the governor for important emergency assignments. And they noted that Eisenhower's statement left the way open for naming Dewey to the cabinet when he has served the remaining two years of his term as governor.

The Eisenhower statement also indicated that Dewey—the GOP presidential nominee in 1944 and 1948—may believe it would be a mistake for him to take a cabinet assignment at a time when Eisenhower is faced with the job of trying to assure harmony in the new administration.

Some friends of Sen. Robert A. Taft, for example, have made no secret of a dislike for Dewey. The New York governor was a leader of Eisenhower backers who helped the presidential nomination for the general in a bitter race against Taft.

Dewey himself had little to say after the conference with Eisenhower. Before the meeting he had declared there was no possibility of taking a cabinet post.

Afterward, he said he had not changed his mind—and that he would not elaborate on the general's statement.

The conference was called, Eisenhower aides said in advance, for a discussion on the general's forthcoming trip to Korea—a trip he will make in an effort to find a way to end the war there—and other policy matters.

Eisenhower said nothing about what went on at the meeting, except that it dealt in part with Dewey's role in the administration. Dewey flew to Miami, Fla., immediately after the conference.

thought newspapers had on the outcome of the election.

"The press was 92 per cent against me," he said. "I think that had something to do with the outcome." He added he thought news stories had some effect but not editorials on the editorial page.

Concerning his home state, Stevenson said he was anxious to get the budget in as good shape as possible and planned to screen all appropriation requests.

"I want to conclude the administration as it started, in as vigorous and effective way as we can," he said.

Stevenson took issue with William Stratton, Republican governor-elect of Illinois, who said in an interview in Tucson yesterday that Illinois has been on a "spending spree."
